

ISCA INTERNATIONAL SUMMERSCHOOL

COLOGNE, JULY 8-10, 2019

Applying Stem Cells in Personalized Medicine

Recent development in stem cell technologies revealed that human stem cells can be used to test how diseased cells respond to drugs. This success highlights a pathway toward faster, cheaper and more effective drug development for some genetic illnesses, as well as the ability to pre-test a therapy's safety and effectiveness on cultured clones of a patient's own cells.

Registration

event@stemcell-academy.com

0049-152-22805939

Organized by

Institute of Neurophysiology
University of Cologne